

Sadika Moussaoui

Head of Human Resources

Sadika Moussaoui is Head of Human Resources at ATR. Member of the Executive Committee responsible for the Group's HR strategy, she defines and leads the company's HR policy, social relations and health, safety and security protection. She joined ATR on 1st July, 2020.

Before joining ATR, Sadika worked at Airbus for 20 years, where she held various responsibilities within HR, an area about which she feels truly passionate. She began in the Payroll and Personnel Administration department before joining the Legal and Social Relations teams.

In 2009, she became Head of Social Policy and worked on harmonising business agreements in Airbus's aircraft division.

In 2012, she was appointed Head of Human Resources of Airbus' transnational centre of industrial excellence. Alongside a team of HR business partners in the four European countries where Airbus is located, she helped to launch a new dynamic for HR, recruiting leaders, promoting international mobility and developing a skills strategy for factories of the future.

In 2015, she became Head of Human Resources for the Airbus factory in Nantes, where she brought in changes for both the organisation and the social, industrial and performance challenges at stake there.

Sadika holds a DESS (French Higher Education Diploma), and a Master's degree, in law and personnel management.
