ATR holds Global Operators Conference

ATR hosts its Global Operators Conference over a two-day period (31st March – 1st April). For its 13th edition, the event is held in Nice, France. Held every two years and very welcome by the operators community, the event brings together most of the ATR current operators worldwide as well as ATR key suppliers.

During these two days, the attending operators will present the most relevant aspects of their experience with the ATR aircraft: maintenance, operation in different environments and conditions, best practices and experience. ATR, as the aircraft manufacturer, will present as well various aspects related with the product, its support options and new developments.

Patrick de Castelbajac says “these conferences are invaluable opportunities for ATR to learn more about our customers’ operations, operators and owners. We are committed to working ever closer with our clients as our operators community continues to grow in each region.”

Attendance at these Operators Conferences is increasing, and customer interactions with each other and with our Customer Support and Services team have proven to greatly contribute to the continuous improvement of the quality of customer operations.

About ATR:

ATR is the world leader on the market for regional aircraft. Known for its exemplary eco-responsibility, ATR is a role model for airlines, not only in terms of its performance and reliability, but also in terms of profitability on short-haul air routes. ATR is ISO 14001 certified. Its aircraft are currently operated by more than 180 airlines in over 90 countries. ATR is an equal partnership between two major European aeronautics players, the Airbus Group and Alenia Aermacchi (a Finmeccanica Group company).
